

The look of a child

The look of child in their mother's eyes
The bond that forever will always be tied
The hand that is held so tight when being fed
The look that is known when nothing is said

The hand that is held on the first day of school
The look when they have broken a rule
The love and compassion they feel everyday
The journey they make in their own way

The coming of age and time to wed
The white dress, flowers and the bands are read
The glow in your face as you come to the door
The look of a child I been here before

The cry of new-born the tears filled with joy
The love that is shared with a mother and boy
The look of a grandmother filled with grace
The look of grandchild with a smile on their face.

The look of child in their grandmother's eyes
The bond that forever will always be tied
The day that the family lays me to rest
The day you know you have been blessed.